LAW STUDENTS TO GATHER

Reunion Will Mark Opening of Washington College.

Special Courses Arranged for Year, with Many New Faces in the Faculty Personnel.

With a reunion of its graduates and an assembly of its new students, Washington College of Law will celebrate its fifteenth anniversary Friday evening in the Chesley Building, Thirteenth street and New York avenue. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to attend the opening.

The course of this law school, which is the only one in the city for women as well as men, is planned with special reference to those working during the day. The sessions, coming on alternative nights, begin at 6:30 o'clock and close at 9 o'clock. The expenses of the students are in proportion to the earnings of the wage-earner.

The method of teaching consists of conferences and quizzing by the teachers, which require thorough preparation of lessons, and is a great time-saver, compared with the lecture system. Besides an active moot court and debating societies, practical courses are given in corporation, international, and administrative law. The master degree is given after a year's post-graduate work in the history of the law.

The special lecturers include Dr. W. C.

Robinson, dean of the law department of the Catholic University, lecturer on jurisprudence; Dr. Edward A. Moseley, secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission, lecturer on interstate commerce; Edwin C. Brandenburg, lecturer on corporations, and William Clark Taylor, deputy register of wills, lecturer on probate practice.

Regular professors are Mrs. Ellen Spencer Mussey, dean and professor of testamentary and commercial law; John Lasky, evidence; Miss E. M. Gillette, real property; Charles W. Fitts, common law and equity pleading; Edwin C. Dutton, contracts and criminal law; Harry A. Hegarty, common law and quiz master; Alfred D. Smith, torts; George Amory Maddox, personal property, and ten assisting professors and instructors.

TARGET PRACTICE ENDS.

Idaho Captures Gunnery Trophy by Satisfactory Score.

Target practice has just been completed by the Atlantic fleet was the announcement made yesterday to Secretary Meyer by Rear Admiral Schroeder, commander-in-chief of the fleet.

Preliminary returns indicate that the gunnery trophy was won by the Idaho with a score of 14 per cent of hits. This is a low score, but, considering the extraordinary conditions encountered, satisfaction is expressed by the officers over the results.

MOVING ON MASHERS

Police Will Seek to Make F Street a Model.

HAT "TIPPING" MUST HALT

Numerous Complaints from Merchants to Bring About Needed Change—Young People Congregate in Front of Stores and Often Greatly Interfere with Business.

The annual fall crusade on the "mashers" who patrol F street, from Eleventh to Fourteenth streets, is on.

Every year for the last four numerous complaints have been received from merchants whose places of business are obstructed by young people congregating in and around the doorway.

F street for about three blocks presents a lively array of fashion about this time of the year, and young girls and young men can be seen by the hundreds.

The young men bow and tip their new fall hats, and the young women look from under their cloche turbans and Chantrelers with their best smiles.

"Many of the young men," said an officer on that beat, "go along the street tipping their hats indiscriminately to young girls they do not know."

"This is a vulgar practice, and we have been trying to eliminate it for some time with some little success. The people who stand in the middle of the sidewalk and talk for half an hour are the greatest cause of annoyance."

Judgment Required.

"We have to use a great deal of judgment in asking them to move on. Some times they are young folks who stop merely for the sake of talking to some one, and another time they have really something that necessitates a conversation."

"The majority of the young people who walk along the street are between the ages of seventeen and twenty, with no earthly business save to meet other boys or girls. Day after day I see the same faces."

"The usual time for the promenade to start is about 4 o'clock, and it lasts for an hour or more."

Make a Protest.

Several business men along the street were loud in their protest when interviewed yesterday.

"We pay a rent of $200 a month for our store here," one said, "and the people have to elbow their way into the place. We pay a man $25 a week to dress our windows, and in the evening when the people are passing they are unable to see our display."

"We have a strong kick coming, and we intend to see that our doorways are kept free of obstructions."

Capt. Thomas Hollenberger, of the First precinct, said that he had received no specific complaints from any of the business men in that locality, but his men were on the lookout to see that the places of business were not obstructed.

"F street is one of the boulevards of Washington," he said, "and the girls walk there to be seen, and the boys stand around to see them. The practice is falling off considerably, and I don't think we will have the trouble this year that we have had in the past."

TAFI GREETS IRRIGATIONISTS.

Sends Telegram to Congress in Session in Colorado.

President Taft yesterday sent the following telegram to B. A. Fowler, president of the Eighteenth National Irrigation Congress, at Pueblo, Colo.:

I regret that my official duties prevent my presence at the National Irrigation Congress, as it would be a pleasure to extend a personal greeting to its members and to see the progress of the work in which I am so much interested. I wish to take this opportunity to express to the members of the congress my thanks and the thanks of the country for what you are doing and the support you are giving to the government in the great work of reclaiming the desert lands of the arid district. I trust that your councils may be wise, and that your deliberations may result in much good.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

Few sales of importance were recorded yesterday, the transactions for the most part being confined to low priced homes. Rentals of apartments seem to form the basis of most business done by the local real estate dealers, with newly completed houses in the northwest section filling up rapidly.

With the cash payment of $250,000, due under the terms of sale, S. W. Woodward will on Sunday take possession of the George Washington University property at Fifteenth and H streets northwest. It is understood that part of this sum has already been advanced to the trustees of the university to meet the needs incident to the fall opening.

Rumors that the present building occupying the property will soon be wrecked to make way for a large hotel, financed by New York City capital, were evident yesterday in real estate circles, but were not confirmed authoritatively.

Willie, Gigs & Daniel have sold for Clarence B. Hight premises, 1855 and 1857 Third street northwest, occupying lots numbered 79 and 80 in block 12 of Le Droit Park subdivision, situated on the east side of Third street, just north of Rhode Island avenue. These properties are two new dwellings in a row recently erected by Mr. Hight, extending northward from Rhode Island avenue to T street northwest. They have six rooms, reception hall, and full-tiled bath, and are heated by hot water. They occupy lots twenty feet front by an average depth of eighty feet to a thirty-foot alley. It is understood that $5,250 was the purchase price for each of the houses, which will be held by the purchaser, a local speculator, as an investment.

RUDOLPH SPEAKS

AT GERMAN FETE

Founding Day Is Celebrated at Loeffler's Park.

In commemoration of the founding of the first German settlement in America, in 1683, German Day was celebrated yesterday afternoon at Loeffler's Park by the United German Societies of the District. Dr. Kurt Voelker opened the exercises at 2 o'clock with an address of welcome. Other addresses were made by Rev. Dr. Mueller, of Baltimore; Commissioner C. H. Rudolph, T. P. Moran, P. J. Hattigan, Crandall Mackey, and Col. John A. Joyce, singing by the Saengerbund, Arion, and Maennerchor societies and out-door sports completed the programme.

In his speech, Commissioner Rudolph likened "German Day" to "Father's Day" of New England, and he said that great pride should be taken in the celebration of both. "These German pioneers took a prominent part in the opening of our country, and their toil was necessary in the development of its vast resources. Statistics show that one-fifth of our country's population is of German blood, and at the present rate of increase, the proportion will soon be raised. However, we are all Americans."

"We ought to take the best from the past as well as from the present. We are debtors to Germany for her art, literature, science, philosophy, and for her music and industrial example. The German settlers have made vast contributions to our Western civilization through their love of liberty and national unity; and especially in their ability to enjoy life, which so many Americans lack. The Germans have loyally assisted in the development of our District of Columbia, and, to-day, they are doing still more for its advancement."

Col. Paul St. Clair Murphy, of the Marine Corps, has applied for voluntary retirement under the provisions of the thirty-year service law. Col. He is a native of New York and entered the Marine Corps on January 27, 1873.

His retirement will promote Lieut. Col. George Barnett to the rank of colonel. Lieut. Col. Barnett was formerly in command of the legion guard at Pekin. He returned to this country several months ago, however, and has been ordered to relieve Col. Murphy at the League Island Yard.

TAFI AND SULTAN

MEET TO-MORROW

Visitor from Sulu Attends Vaudeville Show.

The Sultan of Sulu will be received by President Taft at the White House to-morrow afternoon. The Sultan spent yesterday visiting the officials of the War Department. He called upon Gen. Robert Shaw Oliver, acting Secretary of War; Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff, and Col. Frank McIntyre, acting chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs.

Last night the Sultan attended the vaudeville performance at Chase's Theatre and to-day he will go sight-seeing. The Sultan said that he had enjoyed his visit to New York. The high buildings and swift elevators, he said, were a special source of wonder. Paris and London, he thought, were wonderful cities, but the Sultan believed that New York is the greatest of them all.

The Sultan and his companions are quartered at the Arlington Hotel. The official interpreter said last night that to-day would be spent entirely in sight-seeing, and the visit would end with the meeting to-morrow with President Taft.

COMING FOR COTTON INQUIRY

European Bankers to Solve Bill of Lading Troubles.

Crop Worth $50,000,000 This Year Not to Be Lost to England if Committee Can Help It.

Treasury Department officials learned yesterday that a number of European bankers are coming across to the United States this fall to effect, if possible, a solution of the question of the non-acceptance by European banks of American cotton bills of lading. Since the cotton crop this year will be worth about $50,000,000, and since Europe takes most of it, a settlement is desired both here and abroad.

Several months ago an Alabama firm of cotton brokers failed, and several banks in Liverpool, which held bills of lading for cotton obtained through this bank, found that some of the paper had been forged. Shortly thereafter notice was given by European bankers that after October 31 they would not accept American cotton bills of lading unless guaranteed.

National banks in the United States have attempted to secure the permission of the Controller of the Currency, Lawrence O. Murray, to a guarantee by them of such bills of lading. He has refused the request consistently, and in consequence, the foreign bankers are coming over to see if they cannot find a way out of a problem that is admitted to look serious, both to cotton growers here and to the mills of the continent.

The Sultan hopes to improve the condition of his people from the result of his observations and experiences during his visit here. He will make a study of agricultural methods and implements and machinery with a view of modernizing the farming methods among his subjects in Jolo. He will confer with officials of the Department of Agriculture and probably visit some of their experimental stations. It is likely also that he will visit manufacturers of agricultural machinery.

VETERANS IN DISCORD.

Verbal Clashes Over Col. McElroy Follow on Return Home.

Veterans of the G. A. R. are much put out over the defeat of Col. John McElroy as commander-in-chief. The return yesterday of the majority of those who attended the reunion at Atlantic City brought about verbal clashes between the supporters of the rival candidates.

"Corporal" James Tanner admitted frankly that he had opposed Col. McElroy, but laughed at the idea that the sensational stories against the colonel had anything to do with bringing about his retirement.

"Col. Gillingham," who is a warm personal friend of "Corporal" Tanner, "was so far in the lead," said the "corporal," "that we had Col. McElroy out of it before he entered the field."

According to "Corporal" Tanner, the reason Col. McElroy retired was because he did not have enough votes to win. "Corporal" Tanner disclaimed any part in the stories about the colonel.

Friends of Col. McElroy are determined that the matter shall be sifted to the bottom.

Protests were made to the board by friends of the teachers, because of the reduction in salary that the transfer has caused Mr. Cardozo. The matter has been under advisement since school was opened.

Efforts will be made to have more graduates form the normal school, as there is great need of teachers for next year. On account of the crowded conditions of schools and the lack of teachers, four young women from the normal school will be appointed as soon as possible to relieve the situation.

Petitions for night schools in various parts of the city are being received daily by the board. Deans of citizens have asked that a night school be placed there. Up to date there are 47,750 students enrolled in the District schools, an increase of 5,190 in two weeks.

While you think of it, telephone your Want Ad. to The Washington Herald, and bill will be sent you at 1 cent a word.
